Types of personal data

The types of the personal data processed must be specified in the data processing agreement. - Article 28\(3\) GDPR

EU-US Privacy Shield

The document references the EU-US Privacy Shield, which has been used as a legal framework for personal data transfers to the United States. The Court of Justice of the European Union has invalidated the EU-US Privacy Shield by its judgement of 16 July 2020 in Case C-311/18, which means that companies may no longer rely on this framework for personal data transfers to the United States. Standard Contractual Clauses still remain a valid mechanism for such transfers. We are monitoring this situation closely and we will update this analysis as soon as there are detailed guidelines from the EU supervisory authorities.

Categories of data subjects

Category of data subjects

The categories of data subjects, whose personal data is processed, must be specified. - Article 28\(3\) GDPR

Reference to categories of data subjects

The data subject categories have been laid out in an external document (e.g. appendix) that can't be processed by DPA AI. Please include that external document into the analysed text, or review it separately.
